

At New York's annual flower show which just closed. Two of the pretty debutantes who emphasized the beauty of the blossoms—Miss Margaret Hennessy (left) and Miss Betty Jackson.

International.

In the "army set" at Washington Mrs. Merry, pictured here, wife of Col. William Topping Merry, is frequently described as "the army's most beautiful woman."

Harris & Ewing.

While his sister Mary is on her honeymoon the Prince of Wales still is in India. On Mary's wedding day the Prince visited the Maharaja of Gwalior and went with him for a ride on the royal elephant. He is shown here leaving the Maharaja's palace. The Indian ruler sits in the basket with him.

Central News.

Master Gavan Astor, the son and heir of the Hon. John Jacob and Lady Violet Astor, on his new pony, which he rode for the first time at a meet of the hounds at Haver Castle.

Kadel and Herbert.

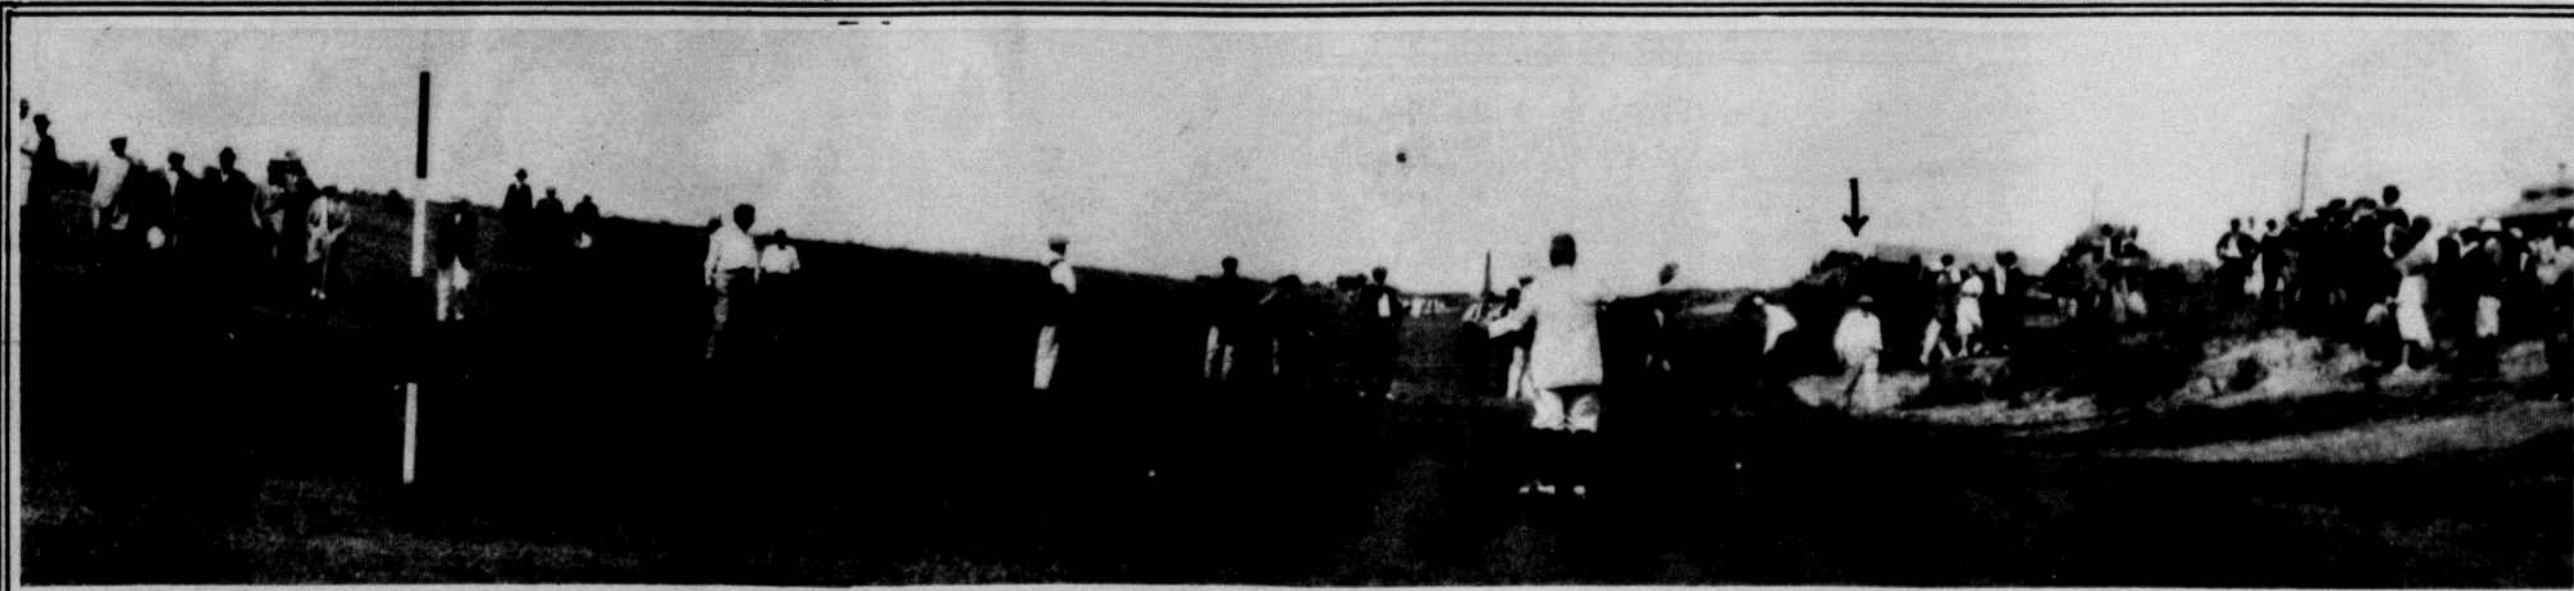

Officers of the newly formed army of the Irish Free State taking over from the British the guarding of the Bank of Ireland—the last step in the "turning over" by England to the new Irish Government. Never before have the Irish guarded their own bank.

P. & A.

"Sylvana," the beautiful terra cotta bust, by Fuchs, which will be one of the charming pieces exhibited at the spring exhibit of the National Academy of Design, which opens this week.

The President at play—here the President, the last player at the right, is seen on the links of the Ormond Beach Country Club in Florida. In this game, when the President holed out at the eighteenth, he had to shake hands with all the spectators.